Workplaces or sites with any hazards such as machinery, sharp or moving objects which have potential to cause critical injuries such as major bleeding must legally have 'adequate and appropriate' first aid to treat injuries that could arise from any risks identified during an assessment. Penalties from the HSE for not doing so can be severe, in addition to the risk posed to those on-site. Alongside other health and safety measures, adequate provision may be achieved by adding bleed control products to existing first aid stocks, or adding Workplace Critical Injury Packs compliant to BS8599-1, which have been specifically developed to meet the latest British First Aid Standards.

Workplace BS8599-1 Critical Injury Kit
Designed to stop catastrophic bleeding in the workplace, this comprehensive Critical Injury Kit will provide immediate and effective assistance before professional medical services arrive

- Provide an immediate response to stop severe bleeding and enhance chances of recovery, stabilising casualties before receiving medical attention
- Designed to supplement basic BS8599-1 first aid kits and is fully compliant with BS8599-1 for workplace critical injury provisions
- Contains market-leading specialist blood loss contents to temporarily treat major injuries instantly and without prior training
- Increase safety in businesses and public areas, ideal for use in dangerous environments such as forestry or any areas where machinery is in use
- Can be used by staff or members of the public in extreme emergencies
- The small and simple investment of adding bleed

control kits to existing first aid provisions demonstrates a commitment to providing 'adequate and appropriate' first aid, and could ultimately save lives

A public access trauma first aid kit, also referred to as a PACT First Aid Kit, is a first aid kit which supports the treatment of immediate, life-threatening injuries such as major bleeding and unresponsiveness, which 'standard' kits do not. PACT First Aid Kits are designed to be used by anyone and support first aid efforts until the emergency services arrive. They have been developed with Home Office approval and "should be commonplace across the UK" within first aid and response plans. ProtectUK state that: "All public and private sector organisations are encouraged to include PACT First Aid Kits within the first aid provisions they have in place." A minimum of two kits is recommended for small premises, and more required for larger premises, distributed accordingly and made easy to locate/access.

The latest official Department for Education (DfE) guidance, 'Protective security and preparedness for education settings' issued in April 2024 recommends that education settings "should consider compiling a grab kit comprising of key items" to "minimise the number of different items that staff need to grab in an incident". These should be compiled in advance and left in convenient and accessible locations. Kits should include equipment that may be required during an emergency such as "communications equipment, useful information, and Public Access Trauma first aid kits." The guidance also recommends it is good practice to have clear roles and responsibilities for protective security and preparedness, including Security and Incident Leads. It is important to ensure these staff can be easily identified during an incident. We have developed a new range of products to expressly help schools meet this new guidance.

School Incident Grab Kit

Official Department for Education (DfE) guidance recommends that education settings "should consider compiling a grab kit comprising of key items that can assist during an incident"

- Demonstrate your commitment to protect those in your care by taking practical measures to be prepared for terrorist attacks and other major incidents
- Includes essential items that may be required during an emergency, such as a PACT kit and 2 x Hi-Vis vests to identify key personnel
- Supplied PACT Kit comes with heavy-duty contents that meet official standards developed by experts, approved by the Home Office and counter-terrorism bodies (see page 39 for more details)
- Choose from 3 high quality bag options. All are extremely easy to transport and have multiple additional pouches and pockets to add your school's plans, contact details, communication equipment, checklists, emergency medication and other essentials
- Choose from complete grab kits containing PACT Kits and 2 x Hi-Vis Vests, or empty bags pre-printed with 'Incident Grab Kit' for creating your own grab kit
- Complete kits are supplied with sign to ensure ease of location in an emergency

- Quicker neutralisation, especially on the face can relieve the distress of feeling 'underwater' from flushing
- Supplied individually in 500ml bottles with an eyebath cap included
- *It is recommended to continue flushing with saline solution or water until medical help arrives

Adrenaline Auto Injectors - See Opposite

Anaphylaxis is a severe and life-threatening allergic reaction - it can be fatal if treatment is not given quickly

- Since 1st October 2017, the Human Medicines (Amendment) Regulations 2017 have allowed primary and secondary schools to buy adrenaline auto-injector (AAI) devices without a prescription, upon receipt of a signed order form from the head teacher
- Anaphylaxis tends to occur straight after coming into contact with a trigger, however it can occur a few hours later. Different people have different triggers, such as foods (e.g. peanuts, eggs or seafood), medicines (e.g. penicillin) or animals (e.g. bee or wasp stings)
- AAIs are highly intuitive and easy to use devices used for the emergency treatment of anaphylaxis
- Different brands of AAI are used in different ways. You MUST follow the instructions provided with your auto-injector

See page 89 for our range of Adrenaline auto injector accessories or visit EurekaDirect.co.uk
